Jas, Howard Has Trouble With His Brother in-Law and Uses a Pistol. Saturday evening between 6 and 7 o'clock

Saturday evening between 6 and 7 o'clock there was an exciting scene at Clark's livery stable, on G street northwest between 17th and 18th streets, during which one pistol shot was fired and one man was knocked down. The bullet went through a door, but did not injure any one. Jas. Howard and Patrick Murphy were responsible for the affair and Mason Bates, a colored man, came near receiving the bullet from a pistol held by Howard.

It appears that Howard and Murphy married sisters. The former married Mrs. Fox, a widow, whose husband committed suicide some months ago, and the marriage was opposed by members of the widow's family, including her father and sister. When the widow married Howard she had several hundred dollars, so it is said, and she gave it to her better half. When arrested $700 was taken from him.

The brothers-in-law, it appears, have not widen the breach by engaging in a fight.

When the widow married Howard she had several hundred dollars, so it is said, and she gave it to her better half. When arrested $700 was taken from him.

The brothers-in-law, it appears, have not been on good terms for some time and Saturday evening, when they met they proceeded to widen the breach by engaging in a fight. Howard dealt Murphy a blow in the face, cutting his chin. This happened on the street and Mason Bates came from the stable to prevent further hostilities. Howard then turned his stiention to Bates, and when he got possession of a revolver in the stable he fired one shot, it is charged, at Bates.

After firing the shot Howard escaped, but he was arrested an hour later and locked up.

Assult with intent to hill and simple assult were charged against Howard and the cases were taken to the Police Court today. Howard was released on ball to appear for trial Wednesday.

The wedding of Miss Rosa, the daughter of Mrs. J. Jackson, and Mr. Sigmund Hartman of Baltimore, which took place at the National Rifles' Armory yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, was attended by many guests from this city and Baltimore. Rabbi Stern performed the ceremonies and Rev. Dr. Zalt of Baltimore concluded with a blessing. The bride was attired in white silk and a long veil. She carried a bunch of white roses it her hand, while a wreath of orange blossoms was entwined in her dark locks. The groom was in full dress evening suit. Marching slowly up the aisle to the strain of Mendelssohn's wedding march, they stood before the altar a pretty group. The ceremonies over the guests passed into the banquet hall, where a repast was served to 300 guests. After supper the company danced until 11 o'clock, when the bridal party left for the home of the couple in Baltimore.
